

Awendaw

This home was designed for the family of a retired engineer who primarily worked on Air Force One. His job provided him with many opportunities to travel the world, but inevitably it came with no shortage of stress. The couple wanted to find a place that was private and peaceful, and they found that haven in Awendaw, an area known for wide open spaces.

Herlong & Associates and Interiors by Herlong designed the home in order to maximize the vast marsh views from every room in the house. With expansive windows, doors and open spaces, stunning Lowcountry panoramic vistas can be enjoyed from the living room, kitchen, study, dining room, bedrooms, porches and patios.

The elevated infinity pool and patio fire pit add to the scenery of the dramatic marsh reserve, creating a secluded and serene slice of heaven for the homeowners, their children and grandchildren.

Top quality craftsmanship and well thought out architectural details, from trim placement and positioning of windows to stylish and comfortable furnishings
